

Information on the manual coding of open-ended answers implemented in the Selects 2023 Panel Survey

1. Coding of “other party” in questions involving a choice of parties

Information available in the text field “other party” were manually recoded into existing categories. Here are a few indications on this manual recoding:

-Youth parties were classified with the main parties (e.g., a mention of the young SVP is added to the category SVP).

-Independent candidates (not belonging to any party) were classified in category 402 "No party/ rather persons".

-Explicit mentions of “no party” were also classified in category 402 "No party/ rather persons". This choice was made because the voting system in Switzerland allows voters not to put any party on the header of their ballot.

These answers classified in 402 were then retained as valid answers in the shorter version of variables (ending with “main6”) and classified in category “350 Other party, several/all parties”. The only exception concerned the variables on the most competent party to solve the most important problem where the explicit mentions of “no party” were then classified in “-99 no answer” in the shorter version.

Please note that the questions on issue ownership (competence and association) include from the beginning a short list of parties. Explicit mentions of “no party” were thus directly classified in “-99 no answer”.

The long list of parties used in numerous variables is the following:

- 10 "FDP/PLR - Liberal Radical Party"
- 21 "The Centre (former CVP/ BDP)"
- 30 "SP/PS - Social Democratic Party"
- 40 "SVP/UDC - Swiss People's Party"
- 50 "GPS/PES - Green Party"
- 60 "GLP/PVL - Green Liberal Party"
- 80 "Lega - Ticino League"
- 90 "MCG - Geneva Citizens' Movement"
- 100 "CSP/PCS - Christian Social Party"
- 110 "EVP/PEV - Evangelical People's Party"
- 120 "EDU/UDF - Federal Democratic Union"
- 130 "PdA/PdT - Swiss Party of Labour"
- 140 "AL - Alternative List / Sol - Solidarity / EàG - Ensemble à Gauche / MPS - Movement for Socialism"
- 201 "PP - Pirate Party"
- 300 "Left party: other left party not listed above"
- 310 "Right party: other right party not listed above"
- 320 "Center party: other center party not listed above"
- 350 "Other party"
- 402 "No party/ rather persons"
- 403 "Would vote blank"

404 "Several parties"
405 "All parties together, all"
406 "Left parties (several)"
407 "Right parties (several)"
995 "Other answer"
998 "Don't know" (used for vote intention, not for party decision)
-99 "No answer".

To create the shorter version, the following recoding was done: (80 thru 350=350) (402=350) (403=-99) (404 thru 407=350) (995 = -99).

The shorter list of parties (in variables whose name ends with "main6") is the following:

10 "FDP/PLR - Liberal Radical Party"
21 "The Centre (former CVP/ BDP)"
30 "SP/PS - Social Democratic Party"
40 "SVP/UDC - Swiss People's Party"
50 "GPS/PES - Green Party"
60 "GLP/PVL - Green Liberal Party"
350 "Other party, several/all parties"
998 "Don't know" (used for vote intention, not for party decision)
-99 "No answer, no party, other answer".

2. Coding of the most important problem (MIP)

There are two open-ended items: f12700 (first question) and f12730 (second question for those who responded to f12700).

The MIP coding only refers to the saliency of problems. It thus may be the case that opposed positions fall into the same category. Examples (in German):

 klimanotstand -> klima (17)

 klimahysterie -> klima (17)

In general, the coding is based on the first mention. Examples (in German):

 ahv -> ahv (1)

 ahv eu > ahv (1)

However, for those participants who did not answer f12730 (code -99), the coding is based on the second mention of f12700 if available and different from the first mention.
